

#	Code	Student	Topic	Time	Rank
2	TC-107	Helen Liao	An interview with a Sandy Hook Survivor Ashley, By: Ashley	06:59	3

Topic: An interview with a Sandy Hook Survivor Ashley, By: Ashley

What I liked about your speech:

- Great opening
- Emotionally connected with audience
- Manuscript was referred during the speech
- Transition between different ideas was great
- Maintained good eye contact
- Excellent vocal variety

What you could improved on..

Primary focus of event is development of the narrative/story and this not an acting event. You could focus more on the speech objectives

3	DW-109	Sean Lee	I wasn't beautiful enough to live in south korea - ashley perez	06:49	2
---	--------	-----------------	---	-------	---

Topic: I wasn't beautiful enough to live in south korea - ashley perez

What I liked most:

- Great opening
- Referred to manuscript during the speech
- Good diction
- Pauses improved your speech effectiveness
- Good Facial expressions -
- Transition between ideas is great
- Greate narration with subtle humor

Areas that can be improved:

- Little problem with video connectivity
- This is not an acting event and you may please review speech objectives

4	FW-129	Allison Hwang	Going the distance by Coleen Wilox	04:47	5
---	--------	----------------------	------------------------------------	-------	---

Going the distance by Coleen Wilox

What I liked most..

- Manuscript was used
- Great story and narrated very well
- Speech was very well organized
- Very sincere and humble

Areas that could be improved upon are..

- Eye contact could have been better
- You could slow down a bit and try use pauses between the ideas

#	Code	Student	Topic	Time	Rank
2	TC-103	Amanda Lin	Bio Diversity	07:50	2
It was a good speech that made me think about this topic. The topic was announced and the problem statement was brought out very nicely. As regards the content, it was full of references and facts which supported the problem statement. I liked the fact that solutions were provided across the speech which did not leave me thinking of what could be the next steps. As regards the delivery, hand gestures were used to convey the thoughts.
3	MQ-102	Meera Kalluraya	Too Many Rules	09:57	4
It was a very emphatic delivery. There was good use of space and hand gestures to convey the thoughts and stress on the points. The topic was not formally announced and while it could be interpreted but it took me a while to make sure that was the problem statement. The content took various examples to stress the fact about rules. While it was refreshing to know the purpose but no clear solution was cited. You could work on organizing the thoughts and providing a structure to the content to make it easy to follow.
4	MQ-105	Kexin Cai	Tolerance to other beliefs	10:01	3
The delivery and the content felt very honest. You used the space very effectively and got us to think about how we all stick to our own beliefs. You could use a little more vocal dynamics to bring about the point. Initially, there were a couple of times when it appeared that you had to stop to memorize the next line and that hampered the flow. But overall you had a good grasp on the delivery and the content.
5	GF-111	Maanasi Keralapura	Sloganzing	10:28	1
Very expressive and emphatic delivery. It was a good introduction to the topic and the structure of the content was provided at the beginning which helped understand the flow. The byte sizing of information and focus on success rather than hard work to achieve it was very pronounced. A lot of real world examples and references were cited. The solution was simplistic but the importance of it was brought about effectively. Went into the grace period but was within 30 seconds over specified time.

#	Code	Student	Topic	Time	Rank
2	MQ-108	Anna Feng	Self-Deprecation	10:15	1
Anna - great presentation, and on a complex topic. You explore it very thoughtfully, and you presented it really really well. I loved your voice intonation, and expression as well as your very thoughtful content.
3	MQ-109	Sophia Xiong	"Life isn't fair"	00:00	2
Sophia - I loved your topic, content and subtle humor!!! What an inspiring topic you chose, and a very relevant one too. It will make me think the next time, I'm about to say to someone that "Life isn't fair". Your speech is very well thought, and touches on several nuances of this complex topic. Your message for each one of us to do our part is right on!!! There is an unequivocal leadership that comes through in your presentation. Great job!!! The voice intonation is wonderful. Overall great job!!!
4	KK-104	Claire Chen	Misunderstanding Rudeness	00:00	5
Claire - great thought provoking topic!!! It changed my perspective on how I look at "rudeness" going forward. I'm not sure if it is technical difficulty but I had some difficulty hearing and understanding you, so would ask that you speak more slowly to enable better reception for your audience. Overall great job!!! Great topic and great content!!
5	FW-110	Peyton Ong	Imitation	00:00	4
Wow Payton!!! What an amazing, unique and thought provoking topic you chose!!! And your speech was such a pleasure to listen to, that I was really surprised when it ended. I realized that you only spoke for 71/2 minutes about, so wanted to encourage you to explore this topic more and perhaps use another couple of minutes to explore how to approach or avoid imitation. Your presentation was right on - just the right mix of animation and thought. You are a natural speaker, and your nervousness did not show at all - I wish I could listen to your speak a little longer.
1	GF-110	Ryan Wilkinson	Food in America	9:30	3
Ryan - what an amazing topic, and great content!!! Your expression and animation was great, and your content was right on. It was really touching at times, and very impactful speech altogether. Your presentation of this very important topic was very thoughtful, and comprehensive covering Beef, to Palm Oil to your own sister's personal journey. my suggestion would be to speak a little louder next time, as I was having some difficulty hearing you. Overall great job!!!

#	Code	Student	Topic	Time	Rank
2	GF-103	Leo Billante	Harms of Social media and how we can fix it	09:58	3

Great topic and very timely with all the focus on Social media and its affects. Confident speech and you found your own personal connection to the content you presented and that added a lot of credibility to the speech. Very deep thoughtful speech.

Great body language and your hard work showed throughout the speech. Apt data to help provide credibility and great examples. You had some novel facts and that kept my interest going throughout the speech.

A few points to ponder:

1. You can make your speech more conversational. You could provide a clearer sumamry of what you were going to talk of in the beginning of ths speech.
2. Speed of delivery was consistent and you could certainly use a lot more variation of tone/ speed/ pause and pitch to help emphasize parts of the presentation.
3. Some more enegy throughout the presentation would help.

Overall enjoyed the speech, great oratory, fantastic effort and a great topic to talk about.

3	MQ-106	Olivia Song	Emotional Detachment	09:04	5
---	--------	--------------------	----------------------	-------	---

Emotional detachment. Very uniform tone and can benefit from some change of pitch. More variety of gesture. Ruffling of paper on the table was very loud and caused distrubance.

Great topic about Emotional detachment, especially as we hear of war times. You had a very smooth tone and had understood the topic of your speech well. Very thoughtful speech. Apt data to help provide credibility and great examples, some more personal examples would have added to the data you provided.

A few points to ponder:

1. You can add more energy to your speech that will add a lot more credibility and keep the audience interested.
2. While you worked hard, you had not internalized the speech as much, which showed in your gestures which could have been more natural. Also it seemed you were stuck to the ground and did not use the space as well.
3. Speed of delivery was consistent and you could use a variation of tone/ speed/ pause and pitch to help emphasize parts of the presentation.

4. You could have brought the conclusion back to the start somehow to give greater effect.

Overall enjoyed the speech, great oratory, fantastic effort and a great topic to talk about.